Your teacher will develop a programme that is tailored to your level, pace, knowledge gaps and objectives, and you will find yourself learning something new at each moment of the lesson. You will memorise vocabulary while engaging in lively and authentic conversations with your teacher on subjects you are passionate about, without having to memorise vocabulary lists at home. Your teacher will introduce grammar concepts in a lively way during conversations related to your interests, and you will discover that grammar can be a set of practical shortcuts rather than dull and abstract rules. In-person and online lessons

Right next to the rue du Rhône in the centre of Geneva, our bright and spacious classrooms with a panoramic view over the Jet d'eau and surrounding mountains offer an attractive and welcoming space to learn in. However, given the current public health concerns in these extraordinary times, taking lessons online from home could be a preferable option.

Online lessons: distance learning with your teacher at your side

By choosing to learn a language online from home, you will be pleasantly surprised to find that communicating with your teacher is just as authentic and spontaneous as in person. Your teacher will be right there with you, even while distance learning, and you'll be able to see their smile better on your screen than behind their mask. The possibility of total immersion in the language you are studying through virtual outings is an excellent opportunity which makes language-learning engaging and motivating. Your teacher will make your lessons interactive, creative, and inspiring, and take you on online visits of museums, natural wonders or cultural events according to your interests and programme objectives. Over the course of the pandemic, our students were surprised to discover that online teaching was just as high-quality, effective, and enjoyable as in-person lessons, and they were delighted about the various technical possibilities that made their lessons all the more enriching through online visits and activities.
